Paul Weber Architect

The architectural firm of Paul Weber Architect, based in Newport, Rhode Island, offers a full scope of architectural and master planning services in an established, diverse, and design-oriented practice. Our portfolio includes residential and commercial architecture, golf clubhouses, unique projects for private clubs, hotels, schools, additions and renovations to historic structures, and adaptive reuse of existing buildings.

Working in a variety of styles, our work seeks to realize the vision of our client's program with creative solutions appropriate to context, climate, and budget. Our extensive experience with residential and commercial projects in coastal zones enables us to maximize the opportunities each site offers.

We believe that every successful project is built on good relationships. For us, the process is always a unique balance of collaboration and coordination, poetry and pragmatism, empathy and aesthetics—and knowing when to lean in, and, more important, when to listen.

At Paul Weber Architect, we ensure that our clients' visions and objectives are respected and appreciated. We help them to understand and participate in the decisions that direct and define their desired outcome. Our goal is to create the finest structure possible and to exceed our clients' expectations.
